

Web Conferencing for Human Resource Departments

Web conferencing can assist your human resources department in many ways from training employees to communicating company updates to the whole company. Learn More!

- Training Employees

Use web conferencing to train multiple new employees all at once. With ReadyTalk, you can also train employees from different locations in one single meeting.

- Company Benefits

Hold web seminars to inform employees of company benefits and policies, such as changes in 401ks, retirement benefits or pension plans.

- Compliance Training

Conduct all of your compliance training using web conferencing. You can easily communicate company procedures and news to the entire company with web conferencing. You are also able to track compliance.

- New Software Training

Train all of your employees on new company software using web conferencing. With ReadyTalk, you allow your employees to quickly and easily learn about new company software and products.

We have to train three thousand employees on several parts of a new NGTS-Next Generation Travel System. To get twenty to thirty people on the phone at one time is a godsend. I found ReadyTalk before I needed to get on the road. It has saved my home life. I mean, really. I don't have to travel.

- Record Training

Record any training session or meeting that you hold. Recording will allow your employees to view any past meeting that they may have missed or wish to review.

- Remote Employees

Train your remote employees without the cost of travel with web conferencing. Web conferencing allows all new employees to get the same level of training no matter where their location.
